

A method of cleaning down-feather material includes a preliminary disinfection of this down-feather material, formation of an air flow in the mix with down-feather material, whose trajectory is repeatedly changed as it passes through a labyrinth for cleaning. Cleaning the down-feather material is carried out in horizontal zones of cleaning.