

A method for modulation of polymeric system conductivity using beta rays consists in modulation of conductivity under field action. Polymer filled with metal nanoparticles is used as modulation body. Modulation is performed under action of  $\beta^-$  -rays.