

A rocking device is designed as a part of a sphere (the smooth bowl) with the track areas on the concave internal surface with different track configurations intended for walking or scooter movement through the grabbing grooves between the tracks providing for the pronounced shakiness. For the alignment of the structure, the weight located between the bowl surfaces is used. The inflatable or meshed protection structures with the fences assure the safety and comfort.