

A roller for breaking bast fiber stems is a shaft with discs fixed on it, those are installed at same distances one from another. At the edges of the discs in circle with constant pitch one-side bends are arranged, and between the discs bushings are placed. At the one-side bends across the whole height of the bends one-side lugs as ripples with low smooth or steep given ripple profile are provided, with constant pitch in circle.