

A design of an irrigation pipeline of drip irrigation for treating against silt accretions comprises an irrigation pipeline with drip water outlets as well as with a water discharge outlet and an end plug mounted at the end of the pipeline. The pipeline is arranged as pipe sections connected in series. The diameter of the pipes decreases in the water flow direction.