

Disclosed is a method of fastening a printing plate for flexographic printing by its securing on a surface of plate cylinder of a flexographic machine. The plate cylinder has a pneumatic system, by which an air cushion is formed between the plate cylinder and printing plate to facilitate fixing the printing plate on the plate cylinder.