

A shell-and-tube heat exchanger consists of a cylindrical housing, pipe unions, cover and bottom, which is divided into a number of sections by means of partitions, and also two tube plates with the fixed in them the heat exchange tubes, wherein on the outer surface of the heat exchange tubes are spiral grooves.