

A thermal protective overall includes front and back halves with the armholes as well as sleeves and a collar. The front half is made as that cutoff along the waistline and knee line. It is additionally provided with a vertical insertion, passing through the center of the front halves up to knees and connected therewith with the aid of two zippers. The back half is made as that cutoff along the waistline and the shoulder-blade line, it has a floating back which is stitched to the back half along the shoulder-blade line and has two vertical folds, made in such a manner as to allow opening for 5 cm, and two elastic tape, sew-in along the lines of cut of the back half.