

A method for producing an electroconductive filler includes modification of carbon nanotubes, and as a modifier for carbon nanotubes silane alcohol solution is used, preliminary the carbon nanotubes are dispersed ultrasonically in water, then mixed with silane alcohol solution and calcium carbonate is treated with the resulting suspension.