

Test-scale of quality of image reproduction includes elements at different angles to determine the accuracy of representation of elements with vacuum forming. Further it comprises elements with angles 5-90 ° to determine the quality of bar elements with positive and negative representation method for stamps of different thicknesses.