

An antibacklash cross-link spring coupling where the torque is transmitted from one half-coupling to the scenes and from the scenes to another half-coupling. In both the radial edges of the scenes set at two spring sites. Each node is a pair of the same design of coaxial cups fixed between them a compression spring.